

*News for people participating in the 2012 National ICT Careers Week
Wednesday 18 July 2012*

National ICT Careers Week 2012 News

Best Wishes For Your Event & Activities in National ICT Careers Week!

*We wish you every success & thank you for your support and interest in promoting ICT study and careers to our young people in Australia.
Penny Coulter, Chair on behalf of the National ICT Careers Week Steering Committee*

The Week Before This Year's National ICT Careers Week

With the week about to happen, please list your proposed event/activity to market your events on the Careers Week website – listing is straight forward. It is important for organisations who have not previously participated in the Careers Week to register their organisation as a first step before registering your event on the NICTCW website.

More Than Just the Week

While the emphasis is on the week of 23-29 July 2012, you can hold your events throughout the year and under the profile of National ICT Careers Week using the branding of "ICT Start here, Go Anywhere" available to all private and public organisations interested in promoting ICT studies and careers.

Social Media

The Careers Week has a Facebook Page and Linkedin Page so we invite you to be part of this network community to help market your events and activities to young people and their friends. We encourage you to list your events and activities - just search Facebook and LinkedIn using 'National ICT Careers Week.'

Getting Interest in ICT Study & Work

One of the key messages that we are pushing with this year's National ICT Careers Week is that ICT is one of the most rapidly growing career pathways available. Young people need to be aware that ICT jobs will give them an opportunity to combine their interests with their job; offer good prospects for promotion; job flexibility to work at home, in the office, part-time, casual, full time; plenty of retraining and up-skilling; and, of course, excellent salaries!

This Week's Teleconference

Thank you to those who attended the teleconference. Remember we will be having a Careers Week Debriefing teleconference on 14 August 2012. Details will be circulated ahead of this date.

Contact for information and to give comments and suggestions
Kerrie Bisaro (02) 8296 4444, kerrie.bisaro@acsfoundation.com.au